FY01 Grant Awards Presentation

Lloyd Potter, PhD, MPH

Lloyd Potter is the Associate Director of the Center for Violence and Injury Prevention and the Director of Children's Safety Network at the Education Development Center, Inc., in Newton, Massachusetts. From 1993-2000, he served as the Leader of Youth Violence and Suicide Prevention at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta. At CDC Dr. Potter was responsible for management of all CDC's scientific and programmatic efforts in suicide and youth prevention. He joined CDC in 1993 after completing his Masters in Public Health from Emory University in Atlanta. Prior to joining CDC, Dr. Potter worked as an assistant professor of Sociology and Demography at Fordham University in New York. His PhD is from the University of Texas at Austin in sociology and demography.

The MVPTF would like to thank you for your continued support in our program

Category One Grant Awardees - Summary of Proposals

The Veterans Education Project (VEP) trains veterans of the U.S. military and non-veterans who have experienced violence as survivors, witnesses or perpetrators (including ex-gang members, survivors of domestic violence, graduates of batterer treatment programs, police officers and others) to volunteer in classrooms, where they share their stories in prevention workshops, engage youth in learning and critical thinking, and provide teens with positive strategies that will utilize VEP's award-winning storytelling approach and other approaches to address youth violence in Hampden County, especially among urban high-risk youth. In building a VTAV coalition, VEP is educators; veterans groups; social service and youth service agencies/ programs; churches and religious organizations; and law, justice and corrections departments. We are creating an Advisory Group from the diverse citizens and institutions of the county's cities to help us recruit and mobilize a volunteer base of speakers from the community, to link us with Hampden teachers who will help us develop and implement programs, and to help us work in coalition with other community groups working on prevention issues. For more information, please contact Rob Wilson at (413) 253-5113.

AtholPreventing Violence Affecting Youth

This is a coalition of people throughout the North Quabbin region who represent sectors of the populations concerned with preventing violence affecting youth. These sectors include schools, youth organizations, the YMCA, law enforcement, court personnel including juvenile probation, private businesses and houses of worship. The North Quabbin region is a good place to do this work because it perceives itself as a subculture. The purpose of the coalition is to engage in a strategic planning process that will approach all sectors in the region to get answers to the following questions:

1. What are you currently doing that could be characterized as preventing violence affecting youth?
2. What would your organization, agency, institution or club have the capacity to do if it had sufficient resources?

With this information, the coalition will create a comprehensive plan and use that plan to get the resources to implement it. We perceive violence as a community-wide issue but, too often, it is characterized as youth violence. Our coalition's mission is to figure out where does that violence come from and break the cycles of violence. We will weave the language and process of non-violent problem solving into the fabric of the community. We consider this project as a potentially replicable project. For more information, please contact Sharon Tracy at (978) 544-6142

BostonStop Abuse, Gain Empowerment

Older women (age 60 years and older) who are the victims of intimate partner and/or sexual violence are at tremendous risk. Neither the domestic violence system nor the elder abuse system is adequately informed or designed to assist them. SAGE-Boston is a consortium of over 20 agencies in the greater Boston area working to increase awareness and responsiveness to older victims. The consortium will use the Massachusetts Violence Prevention Task Force funds to develop and disseminate materials and conduct training (x4) about violence against elder women during this program year. For more information, please contact Lisa Tieszen, LICSW at (617) 667-8241

HaverhillHaverhill Police Department

It is our intention to provide violence education for the Haverhill police, nurses and social workers at the Home Health VNA, community healthcare providers who provide care in Haverhill as well as educators at all levels and employers. In addition, we intend to begin work on an intervention project with children who are witnesses to violence at home and/or in the community. Finally, we will be initiating, with the Haverhill Police Department, a community education program on violence. For more information, please contact Captain Donald Thompson at (978) 373-1212 ext. 148

HyannisCape Cod Council of Churches, Inc.

This grant will be used by the Cape Cod Council of Churches, Inc. to build a coalition of Cape Cod organizations whose mission includes service to youth, and to recruit up to twenty five youth volunteers from and through these organizations. These volunteers will circulate the Search Institute Survey of Youth Assets to 1,200 youths, ages 12-18, representing as broad a cross section of the populations of Cape Cod as possible. These completed surveys will be collected and returned to the Search Institute, yielding a report of a baseline of prevention data for Cape Cod. The volunteers recruited from youth organizations will be encouraged to continue as coalition members representing their organizations, to address the conclusions derived from the survey process in a sustainable way over the year ahead. For more information, please contact Steven Brown at (508) 862-9984

Jamaica PlainJamaica Plain Coalition: Tree of Life/Arbol de Vida

The Family Support Committee of the Jamaica Plain Coalition: Tree of Life/Arbol de Vida will work to develop specific goals and objectives to incorporate parent/juvenile support groups into a violence prevention strategy for Jamaica Plain. The parents, police and agencies will work together to develop a series of workshops for parents and youth on topics that add to the risks of violence behavior, such as absenteeism or substance abuse. We will set up pilot workshops in the three police sectors that make up Jamaica Plain. If these are successful we will look for funding to expand the workshops to establish on going support for both the parents and the youth. For more information, please contact Margaret Noce at (617) 522-4832

MattapanMattapan 2006 Faith In-Action Initiative

Mattapan 2006 is a collaborative effort that encourages faith-based leaders in Mattapan to meet with law enforcement, human service providers, and the school system to increase awareness about the risk factors affecting Mattapan's youth. The group seeks to develop multi-faceted interventions to expose Caribbean youth to the risks associated with substance abuse, HIV/AIDS, and violence.

Funding from the Massachusetts Violence Prevention Task Force will assist in building and sustaining the coalition and its sponsored activities. The coalition sponsors events such as community forums, a youth rally, as well as hosting the weekly coalition meeting to address community needs. For more information, please contact Ricardo O'Neal, MSW at (617) 296-6789

RoslindaleCommunity Justice Partners

The mission of this “coalition building initiative” is to develop a community justice model of intervention, called circles, within micro-communities to reduce re-offending of DYS committed youth returning to the community and to prevent first time offending of their younger siblings.

We will approach “coalition building” from two angles. Once, we will ask organizations in the community to take part as participants in circles work. Two, we will be asking offender’s family, victims, victims’ families and adults in the community who know a DYS youth being discharged from a residential facility to take part in a circles intervention. This group becomes the micro-community for the particular offender.

This model defines a crime as an offense against relationships. A circle intervention engages the community as a resource for reconciliation of victims and offenders and as a resource for monitoring and enforcing community standards of behavior. A community justice response to crime is a community-building activity.

The Institute for Study of Violence in Brookline, Massachusetts will be involved as a research resource to help us study our methods and outcomes. For more information, please contact Ken Rogers at (617) 288-9100

WesthamptonWesthampton Community Coalition

Westhampton’s Community Coalition began in January 2000. The coalition meets monthly and evolved from discussions about violent issues affecting our town to action/program implementation. The coalition is called “Westhampton Community Action for Respect Education” (We C.A.R.E.). The mission is “each and every person in Westhampton will be respected and safe from violence at home, at school, and in the community. Furthermore, all will be encouraged to continue developing their potential, supporting each other, and protecting the environment”. A recent program called Reading Day was run at the Westhampton Elementary School. It was a successful day with community adults and high school students reading books about respect, tolerance, and diversity to children in grades K-6. Another ongoing activity is a “Good News Page” included in the monthly town newsletter (The Bell Tower). With this recent grant funding, we can now expand our violence prevention outreach even further and to have a greater impact. For more information, please contact Deanna Brooks at (413) 527-8141

Category Two Grant Awardees - Summary of Proposals

AttleboroG.A.T.H.E.R. - Greater Attleboro/Taunton Health and Education Response

Recognizing that violence is a learned behavior that is modeled to youth by the adult caretaker, the approach to prevention must be multifaceted. The goal of the coalition is to remove all obstacles for adults and children who are victims of bullying and harassment by providing education and information on referral and support services. Reducing community violence will require a comprehensive approach that will include addressing the following issues: reducing gang, gun and drug violence and strengthening families. The programs will focus on bullying and harassment prevention for children and families. For more information, please contact Lorraine Rosa at (508) 823-4822

BrocktonGreater Brockton Community Health Network (CHNA)

The Greater Brockton Community Health Network (CHNA) proposes a parent support initiative targeting the Hispanic/Latino community in the greater Brockton area. This initiative will include the following components:

- Development of a corp of trained Spanish speaking “peer parents and providers”
- Training of trainers (TOT) in a science-based parent skills curriculum designed for Hispanic/Latino participants and their pre-school children such as “Dare to be You”
- Development of materials and resources for Spanish speaking parents in their native language
- Recruitment, transportation, childcare, facilitation and support for a “Parents Helping Parents” ongoing support group for Spanish speaking parents/caregivers

For more information, please contact Donna LeClair at (508) 894-4329

CambridgeCambridge Violence Prevention Task Force

The purpose of the “Safer, Stronger Girls” initiative which the Cambridge Violence Prevention Task Force proposes to undertake stems from a perceived need to more accurately (and completely) assess the current safety of adolescent girls in the Cambridge Public School system. Virtually every month, one or more service providers gathered at the table of the monthly VPTF meeting shares and anecdote, a rumored event, or an observed trend of violence affecting girls either as victims, aggressors or both. Coupled with the data of the last ten years of the Teen Health Survey (administered annually to every student at the High School) it is becoming clear that the three particular types of violence appear to be happening with alarming frequency; sexual assault, dating violence, and physical violence between girls. In a series of qualitative and quantitative assessment activities, including targeted focus groups, surveys, and information gathering from key service providers, we intend to ‘round out’ the picture suggested by this skeletal information already available. We know violence is happening, and concern is growing. We are not clear on the root causes, more specifically who is being victimized, and what barriers prevent reporting. After collecting data, we will then begin to devise a set of feasible, coordinated interventions aimed at improving the safety of girls, empowering them to make safe choices, and enabling them to better access support systems and allies in their safety. For more information, please contact Susan Marine at (617) 665-3888

DorchesterVietnamese Youth Task Force

The Vietnamese Youth Task Force is a coalition of community agencies working together to reduce violence and increase opportunities for Vietnamese youth in the Fields Corner, Savin Hill, and St. Mark's neighborhood of Dorchester. The Task Force brings together the local police, youth serving agencies, and organizations working with the Vietnamese community. The Task Force works closely with existing organizations and coalitions addressing community safety and crime prevention.

The mission of the Vietnamese Youth Task Force is to create a neighborhood that supports Vietnamese youth and their families to build constructive, peaceful and satisfying lives. The coalition Task Force seeks to reduce violence, prevent substance abuse, and increase opportunities for academic success among Vietnamese youth in the Fields Corner neighborhood of Dorchester, by collectively working on initiatives to reduce crime, decrease number of Vietnamese youth joining gangs, increase awareness of substance abuse issues, educational issues, literacy issues, health care access and mental health issues. For more information, please contact Ali Noorani (617) 825-0110 ext. 278

LexingtonLexington Public Schools: Health Protection Advisory Council

The Lexington Public Schools offer an after school program for seventy at risk eighth grade students aimed at increasing their ability to resolve conflicts peacefully, reduce opportunities to engage in behaviors that place them at high risk for violence, and encourage a successful transition to the high school. They engage in activities supervised by a high school social worker and resource officer with the support of trained high school peer leaders. The model builds on and expands a successful program that has been offered for the past two years. The Transition Program is run under the auspices of the Lexington Public Schools and is monitored by the Health Protection Advisory Council. For more information, please contact Elaine Sterzin at (781) 861-2348

MaldenToward a New Malden: Healthy Malden Inc.

Malden, Massachusetts, located five miles north of Boston, is a working class city with a population of 53,000. Malden is experiencing rapidly shifting demographic changes. Once predominantly a city of people of Irish and Italian decent with a significant population of African Americans, Malden now has a rising Asian and Haitian population. As of Massachusetts' most rapidly changing urban centers in terms of its demographics, prejudice and violence and hate crimes are an increasing threat to the well being of our community. Conversely, changing demographics also represents one of Malden's emerging assets. Clearly residents of Malden, including our youth, who represent the future of the City stand on the precipice of either great opportunity or significant challenge depending on how issues of diversity, power, and discrimination are identified, addressed and acted upon.

Established seven years ago as a 501c3 and as a partnership between the Malden Mayor's Office and Hallmark Health Systems, Healthy Malden, Inc. is the umbrella organization for nine community-based task forces that address health and social issues as identified by the community. To attain the best vision for the emerging Malden as it relates to the growing diversity of the community, Health Malden, Inc. is working with several other committed communities partners to develop a comprehensive four pronged diversity initiative. The overarching goal of this initiative is to reduce prejudice, prejudice based violence, and discrimination and increase acceptance and appreciation for the various cultural groups that have emerged as a significant aspect of the "new" Malden. Healthy Malden is committed to assisting our community create the climate in which diversity is acknowledged and utilized as an asset while prejudice, prejudice-based violence and all forms of discrimination are eradicated in our community.

This four-pronged approach includes the following components. The first component involves facilitated discussions on race, the “isms”, discrimination, and white privilege to be led by an outside expert. The second component includes educational workshops and forums by members of the community who represent leading non-dominant cultures in Malden (Asian, Haitian, Latino, Russian-Jew, and African American). The third component would engage a group of Malden’s middle and high school youth themselves with adults serving as advisors. The fourth component is the planning and implementation of a celebratory diversity day for the entire Malden community. For all four components, Healthy Malden will seek to actively involve youth, parents/guardians, and citizens from Malden’s increasingly diverse community. Throughout the project, we will continuously draw on the expertise and resources of existing community organizations that serve immigrant and minority populations. For more information, please contact Kelly Brilliant at (781) 388-4404

Marblehead

Marblehead Public Schools: Health Protection Advisory Committee

This project targets two constituencies:

- Children in the town of Marblehead who are not currently reached by efforts to identify children at risk of behaviors associated with violence;
- Bystanders including children, teachers, families and other community members who lack tools to intervene and assist children at risk for violence behavior against others or themselves.

The program is designed to increase community involvement in violence prevention efforts. The project will extend the Youth Risk Behavior Survey to children enrolled in private and charter middle and high schools in the community, and it will develop a survey tool for children in grades 3 and 4. The program will provide peer mediation training for additional high school and middle school students and will permit expansion of the peer-mentoring program. A speaker from the anti-defamation league will address the community regarding protective processes that can avoid ritualistic targeting of weak or unusual members of the community. Finally, public forums will engage the community in a dialogue regarding ways to decrease risk behaviors and violence among children. For more information, please contact Paula Dobrow at (781) 639-3147

Mashpee

Upper Cape Domestic Violence Coalition

There are two components of the 2001 community-wide violence prevention initiative. The first component of the initiative offers the Workplace Violence Trainings to town employees in Bourne and Sandwich. The training will highlight the need for a workplace to violence policy for town employees. It will also identify early warning signs for employees who are potential perpetrators of violence, as well as the strategies for intervening with such employees. The second component of the initiative includes the development and implementation of a Violence Prevention Curriculum for employees of the Mashpee Fire Department, at the request of the Fire Chief, George Baker. The curriculum will include education about the cycle of violence, the roots of violence, its symptoms, its effects on victims, and strategies for coping with violence. Participants will have an opportunity to examine their own potential for violence behavior, and resources for change. For more information, please contact Louise Patrick at (508) 539-2552

MelroseMelrose Alliance Against Violence

Melrose Alliance Against Violence is a community-based organization focusing on violence prevention through community awareness, education and outreach. The Board of Directors includes representatives from the schools, police, hospital, clergy, Board of Health, business community, and students.

This initiative aims to prevent bullying and related behaviors at the elementary school level by training students, parents, teachers and administrators and support staff on the issue. Selected eighth grade peer leaders will first be trained on issues related to bullying, teasing, harassment and exclusion, as well as classroom presentation and leadership skills. Under the direction of a male and female team of adult coordinators, the peer leaders will then develop a short play on bullying to be used as a springboard for discussion with students in the elementary grades. In addition, training for all elementary school staff, and a city-wide workshop for parents will be offered. Each component of the program is critical and designed to reinforce the message that bullying is not accepted in this school/home/community. Results of the initiative will be assessed through tracking bullying behaviors by school nurses and administrators, as well as written feedback forms following each training event. For more information, please contact Rebecca Mooney at (781) 662-2010

NorthamptonNorthampton Community Health & Safety Advisory Committee

This project's goal is to create a collaborative infrastructure and prevention/intervention programs that will reduce the incidence of bullying, bias, discrimination, physical violence and related risks, including substance abuse, among Northampton-area youth. The following objectives have been set:

- Assist students at risk for violence related behaviors to gain knowledge and skills about conflict resolution, anger management, homophobia, gender bias, positive relationships, team building, youth leadership, community service, substance abuse, and gang involvement.
- Provide opportunities for staff, parents, and other community members to develop skill and understanding related to violence prevention and the importance of adult role models.
- Provide and coordinate community prevention/intervention resources for students at risk for violence-related behaviors.

For more information, please contact Patricia Williams at (413) 587-1361

RoxburyProject Free

Project Free will utilize funding from the Massachusetts Violence Prevention Task Force to develop youth leaders in assisting in organizing their community around violence prevention, respect for diversity, and bridging the digital divide between majority and minority communities. Funding will help support a three-day "Peace Retreat" with violence prevention and diversity workshops, an anti-violence march and rally, and youth stipends to carry out a survey on community needs and perceptions about violence. For more information, please contact Willie Mae Bennett-Bradley at (617) 427-3556

Somerville

Somerville Youth Worker's Network

The Somerville Youth Workers Network (SYWN) is a group of approximately forty service agencies serving the youth of Somerville. The stated purpose of the SYN is to "Share knowledge, resources and information, and to build collaborative fundraising strategies and programs that will ultimately improve the quality of life for Somerville youth." The network was founded by its chairman, Fluffy Bergman, the Director of Somerville's Mystic Learning Center, and is aided by a Steering Committee of 6-10 members who meet monthly. The Steering Committee is not a governing body, but serves to research and discuss more in-depth strategies for the larger Network. In a way the SYN's monthly two-hour meetings do not become bogged down with details, which are better dealt with in committee. Other committees such as the Teen Summit Task Force, Public Relations, Outreach, and others are convened on an ad hoc basis. The SYWN has regular representatives from Tufts University; the Somerville Board of Aldermen's Committee on Youth, and the Cambridge-Somerville Hospital Health Alliance.

The Somerville Youth Workers Network (SYWN) was formed in 1993 as a collaboration between the Somerville Housing Authority's Mystic Learning Center and the Somerville Community Youth Program, to bring together all of the service agencies of Somerville that work with the city's youth population. The agencies currently represented in the Network are as follows: Amnesty International, Big Brother Association of Greater Boston, Boys and Girls Club of Medford and Somerville, Cambridge Guidance Center/Child Witness to Violence Program, CASPAR Youth Services, Cops and Kids Program, Catholic Charities, Community Action Agency of Somerville, College Avenue United Methodist Church, Conversations Project, Council for Children, Inc, PW Greenspace Coordinator Office, Eagle Eye Institute, Employment Resource, Inc, Ethnic Arts Center of Somerville, Five City Tobacco Collaboration, FOCAS (Families of Cambridge and Somerville), Haitian Teens for Positive Change, Schools and Families Working Together, Just A Start House, Impact, Mystic Learning Center, Inc, Massachusetts Alliance of Portuguese Speakers (MAPS); Mount Auburn Hospital Center for Community Health, Patriot Trail Girl Scout Council, Saint Catherine's Church Youth Ministry, Shortstop/Wayside, Somerville Board of Aldermen/Youth Committee, SCAT (Somerville Community Access Television), Somerville Mediation Program/Somerville Community Corporation, Somerville Housing Authority, Somerville Mental Health Clinic/Child and Family Services, Somerville Public Library, Somerville Recreation Commission, Somervision, Teen Action Group/Elizabeth Peabody House, Teen Connection/Cambridge Somerville Health Alliance, Tufts University, The Mirror Project, The Family Center, Inc, Welcome Project, Inc, Violence Prevention Through Art, Words Not Weapons, Youthbuild/Just a Start. For more information, please contact Suzanne Boucher at (617) 926-3600 ext. 309

South End

South End/Lower Roxbury Youth Worker's Alliance

The South End/Lower Roxbury community is facing dramatic growth in its youth population due to extensive development of new housing in Lower Roxbury. This rapid influx of new youth into a neighborhood which already has many boundaries segregating young people from each other makes the collaborations, the leadership development and the advocacy done by the Youth Worker's Alliance more critical than ever. The Youth Worker's Alliance is building community around youth issues, in simple ways like assisting youth workers make referrals for siblings of youth in their programs, and in more complex ways through education of youth workers. We are developing cooperation and collaboration among youth-serving agencies, and building leadership among youth workers, in order to increase the long-term capacity of the neighborhood to provide services for youth. With support from the Massachusetts Violence Prevention Task Force grant, the YWA is developing collaborative events for youth from the diverse corners of our neighborhood and compiling a Resource Directory for Youth Workers. For more information, contact YWA at (617) 425-2051 or ywa@sechc.org.

The idea of this grant is to teach children conflict resolution skills that they can use in their families, with their peers and as parents when they grow up. It is also intended to help Ware parents gain the tools they need to build violent-free family lives. The Coalition feels that by working together collaboratively with other town agencies such as the Ware Domestic Violence Task Force and the School Health Advisory Committee (SHAC), the initiative of this grant will be most effective. It is an opportunity that may lift this generation of Ware families and children out of an intergenerational cycle of violence. For more information, please contact Diane Felthner at (413) 967-6241
